SCOTT SPECK – AN EXHIBITION

A big thank you to January's speaker, Scott Speck!

Scott gave the Camera Clique a wonderful and interesting presentation on pinhole photography.

Scott has a current exhibit going on in Dupont Circle in DC. He invites us to attend an exciting exhibition of his photographs, created using hand-made wood/brass pinhole cameras. These simple devices, free of lenses and electronic components, allows him to explore perspective, texture, and dimensionality in a unique and powerful way.

Where: Studio Gallery, 2108 R Street N.W. Washington, DC 20008

When: February 4 - February 28, 2009

To learn more about pinhole photography or to view his website, go to <http://www.scottspeck.com>

What: Fragments and Ashes

Who: Erin Antognoli

When: March 7 – April 26

Where: Delaplaine

This series of photographs depicts areas in and around Washington D. C. not often portrayed anywhere else.

Antognoli says, "Memorials and government buildings characterize most peoples' idea of the city. As with every place I have lived, the details make a city unique, therefore the details are where I chose to focus my attention."

Erin is a local area fine art wedding photographer and mixed media artist. She enjoys people and holga photography best, although she experiments with many different subjects and media where she finds them.

Did you know that the Washingtonian Magazine holds a monthly photo contest?

Each month a different theme is selected and all levels of photographers are encouraged to enter. You can enter as many photos as you would like. The panel of judges selects the best entries and then the readers vote on the winner!

The winning photo is published in a future issue of the magazine, as well as a brief bio about the photographer.

February's theme is "Color". To enter, visit <http://www.washingtonian.com>

Afternoon Cherry Blossoms at the Tidal Basin!

Date: 03/28/2009
Time: 3:00 pm - 5:30 pm
Fee: $59 per person

Springtime in Washington DC means cherry blossoms. And the best place to shoot them in the late afternoon sun begins at the FDR Memorial and then to move with the sun behind us along the Tidal Basin toward the Jefferson Memorial, guided by professional architectural photographer E. David Luria. The FDR Memorial itself offers hours of photographic fun, exploring the waterfalls, the Depression-era statues, and the depictions of FDR and Eleanor, plus great views of the Tidal Basin, the Washington Monument and the Jefferson Memorial, all framed in cherry blossoms. Our clients are also the ONLY people to take an EXCLUSIVE photo at a secret spot we have discovered on the Tidal Basin: the "Lady of the Blossoms Cherry Tree!"

The National Cherry Blossom Festival is DC's signature springtime event. The 2009 Festival is March 28 – April 12, and features daily cultural performances, sporting events, arts & crafts, demonstrations and other special events. The National Cherry Blossom Festival celebrates the 97th anniversary of the gift of the cherry blossom trees and the enduring friendship between the citizens of the United States and Japan.

Open to photographers at any skill level with any kind of camera, film or digital.

Meet at visitor entrance to FDR Memorial, West Basin Drive SW, between Ohio and Independence Aves., SW.
